mark, To Be Torn Down.

Greenwich, Conn., Sept. 6 .- The spire

of the old Congregational Church, one of the landmarks in Connecticut and a guide by which captains of Sound vessels have been accustomed to steer for years, must be torn down.

The edifice, located on the highest point of land between New York and New London, was "Adirondack" Murray's old church. Its members, said to comprise the wealthlest congregation in the state, have been forbidden to worship there by experts, who have condemned the structure.

for the short term in the United States Senate is conceded by majorities ranging from 7,000 upward, but considerable doubt surrounds the election of Frederick Hale, Republican candidate for the long Senate term. Embroidered in his candidacy are all the issues upon which the Republican candidate for President has been talking for a month.

Mr. Hale's opponent is Charles F. Johnson, who is seeking reelection. He stands for everything that President Wilson does. His candidacy is a test of Wilson's strength. If Johnson is reelected it will be hailed from one end and he is convinced that such an at-titude is as necessary to-day as it was Waterville, Me., Sept. 6.—Senator of the country to the other as a vic-

This department has entered the second stage of service to Tribune readers. Primarily it was intended merely to separate the sheep of advertising from the goats-and hang a bell on the goats. But now it goes beyond mere identification. It embraces a human nature study of both sheep and goats. You are invited to assist. For every letter printed in this department describing experiences-pleasant or unpleasant-with advertisers of merchandise, excepting only patent medicines, The Tribune will send $2.00, payable in any merchandise of any Tribune advertiser. For the most important letter each month a special prize of $50.00, payable similarly, will be awarded. Name printed or withheld-as you prefer, but must be signed or we will not know where to send the prize order. Address: The Ad-Visor, The Tribune, New York.

Donc, you couldn't drag me into a vandeville theatre. Yesterday, however, I read in my favorite morning paper that the following wits and racconteurs would appear at the New Amsterdam that night; William Collier, Will Rogers, Frank Tinney -all good comedians of the bon mot school. With pleasant expectations of an evening of dry, subtle humor. I hied me to the theatre, where my first disappointment was to find that the legend "Frices 50 cents to $2.00" of the guaranteed Tribune ad was simply a joke. Having come that far, however, and estimating that Collier, Rogers and Tinney - to say nothing of Irving Berlin, Jack Wilson, Bernard Granville, James J. Corbett and Kitty Gordon-might well be worth $2.50 a seat, I parted with currency of the realm of a value of five dollars and was permitted therefor to occupy seats K21 and 23 of the orchestra.

Well, dear redresseur of torts, what they did to me while I writhed in that seat brings out a cold sweat just to think of it now. The Times reporter in his account of the massacre concludes by saying "the audience left quietly." The audience, my dear sir, left almost surreptitiously, walking on tip-toe and ashamed, positively ashamed at having been bunceed again.

Now I have never bought oil stock the price of which was positively to be advanced 50 per cent on the 15th prox., nor am I among those who have learned to play poker by playing with strangers encountered on shipboard. I am of a suspicious disposition and I don't think I can tell under which shell the nimble pea lies. In other words, I am not a sucker and I resent being made to play the role of one.

I don't want to punish The Tribune for inserting an ad which, while deceptive and fraudulent, it accepted and published in good faith and with the conviction that it was what it purported to be, but I want some one punished, not for obtaining five dollars from me under faise pretences—that is a amail matter, and I'll gladly give the five dollars to the Lafayette Kid or Secours National—but for making a monkey of me.

It's about time some one took a good fling at this benefit abuse. Here is an incident that will illustrate how far the promoters of such celebrations are willing to go. Not one of the celebrities mentioned by Mr. Tisné

Mr. Ackerman informed her that he had received about 2,000 replies to his "ads," and as evidence showed her an enormous stack of letters.

This shows how many "would-be victims" were misled by the inclosed ad, which, as you notice, makes no mention of a "Screen and Dramatic Art School"

LEON A. RADLER.

The advertising makes no mention of a course in instruction. On the contrary, it states that positions are open and "no experience necessary." Merely another one of the familiar forms of lures to be found in The World's classified advertising columns.
